Flight Instructor Pilot Program

The Associate of Applied Science Flight Instructor Pilot Degree Program at Dodge City Community College is approved by the U.S. Department of Education for the federal student financial aid programs.

The two-year program Associate of Applied Science Flight Instructor Pilot program provides the opportunity to complete Federal Aviation Administration certification in private pilot, commercial pilot, instrument helicopter, flight instructor and flight instructor instrument. Although there are many jobs in various segments of the helicopter pilot industry, graduates of the Flight Instructor Pilot program can expect to start their rewarding career initially as a Helicopter Flight Instructor.

After the initial pilot position, most pilots can expect their next exciting pilot position to be located in the Gulf of Mexico, flying for oil companies in support of exploration, drilling and extraction operations, or Las Vegas, Alaska and the Grand Canyon flying helicopter tours.

...After that, the sky's the limit!

(The completion of all 5 ratings is necessary to have a successful career as a Commercial helicopter pilot.)
